Re: Activity in 2019 in the Ag-NRL Zoning Designation – commercial and residential permits, subdivisions
Date: January 21, 2020

Summary

The data below summarizes residential and commercial building permit activity in the Agriculture Natural Resource Land zoning for 2019. This does not include demolitions or grading permits. Figures 1 and 2 show permit activity since 2015 for applications received, permits issued, and permits completed. Tables 1 and 2 summarize details for commercial and residential projects based on activity status. Figure 3 and Table 3 shows residential and commercial permit activity (applied, issued or finalized) for 2019. For 2019, additional data has been added to the report, which includes permits that were issued and permits that were finalized. In 2018, only received applications were reported on.

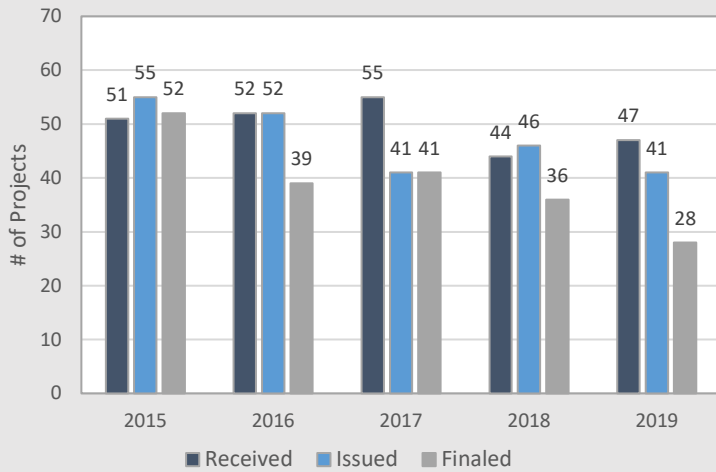

2019 Ag-NRL Subdivision Activity

While the County received 12 short subdivisions overall, four were located in the Ag-NRL zoning designation. Three were reviewed under the agricultural land preservation (ALP) code, SCC 14.16.860, while one was a proposed 3 lot short CaRD that will result in the creation of a natural resource land easement. Two of the mentioned ALP short plats were also completed in 2019, in addition to another applied for in 2016. The three subdivisions completed in 2019 resulted in 101.96 of 105.07 acres placed into conservation easements.

Comparing 2019 to 2018 Ag-NRL Residential and Commercial Permit Activity

PDS received 12 more residential permit applications in 2019 than in 2018. While there was a slight increase in dwelling units (15 in 2018 and 19 in 2019), the biggest increase came from residential accessory structures (4 in 2019 and 13 in 2018). In 2018 of the 15 dwelling units, 7 were replacements and 4 were conversion from garage to dwelling unit and in 2019 of the 19 dwelling units, 4 were replacements and 2 were conversions from garage to dwelling unit. Commercial applications were down 6 in 2019 (11 in 2018 and 5 in 2019) with project valuation in 2019 at $2,520,308.16 (down $7,739,317.03 from 2018). Agricultural buildings, both commercial and residential were down by 7 (14 in 2018 and 7 in 2019). While permit application activity was higher in 2019, new impervious surface was down by 0.46 acres for residential projects and down 7.18 acres for commercial projects.
